Blue Ballot Perils Told by Legislators

Unprecedented Meeting Held At Court House

Candidates of Both Parties Agree Two Weeks Before Election

The two Republican and one Democratic representatives from the 51st Senatorial district went on record Saturday night as opposing the Blue Ballot amendment on grounds that it's a measure strictly for the benefit of Cook county, as it would give the Chicago area control of the state.

Speakers were Rep. Paul Powell, Democrat, and Rep. Gordon Kerr and Rep. W. O. Verhines, Republicans, who addressed a gathering at the Saline county court house.

The amendment calls for the redistricting of the state with Cook county getting a majority in the state house of representatives.

It also calls for downstate to get a majority in the state senate, but Rep. Powell stated that with the stated majority, downstate would get three less senators than it now has and that Cook county could get a majority in the senate in the future easy enough.

Would Create Confusion

Powell said that under the proposed amendment, the representative districts would be on the basis of population and the senate districts on an area basis.

"That would bring about senate and representative districts with different boundaries and would create confusion," Powell stated, adding:

"And here's the catch: It provides that if the state is not redistricted every ten years, and if the Cook county bosses decide they don't want a redistricting, and if the committees fail to act on appointments to the senate, then the senators will run from the state at large. Then Cook county will take away your majority in the senate, and will control both houses.

Higher Cost

"And," he continued, "there's nothing in the amendment that tells how one is nominated from the state at large."

Powell said it would cost the taxpayers a million dollars more per biennium under the proposal, that 24 representatives and seven senators would be added to the legislature, each with a salary of $10,000, plus mileage and committee expenses.

He said the resolution for redistricting, passed at the last General Assembly, provides for area districts for senator, but a look at the picture shows that downstate the senate districts will have 1,617 square miles and in Cook the districts will be 39.3 square miles.

"This is equal to the way they trade in Cook county," he stated. "They'll take a horse and give away a rabbit anytime."

He pointed out that areas have not been used as a basis for districts in states since 1844 and asked:

"Why Illinois now?"

Then Powell predicted that if Cook county gets control of the house of representatives, which it will have with passage of the Blue Ballot amendment at the polls Nov. 2, that downstate will come out on the short end of allocations for schools and roads, that during the past years Chicago has fought for more money at the expense of downstate.

He also predicted it would mean the main part of the University of Illinois would be taken to Chicago with the school at Urbana just a branch. A two-year school was started at Navy Pier in Chicago, he explained, and now a four-year school has been approved for Chicago.

"If this goes through," he said, "SIU will be curtailed because Cook county will tell the people that the university at Carbondale doesn't need any more money because the students can go to school at Urbana."

Vote "No," Verhines Urges

Powell concluded by saying he wasn't against reapportionment, but just against giving control to one county.

"I don't believe the framers of Judge Turns Down Defense Pleas to Postpone Murder Trial of Dr. Sheppard

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin turned down two defense pleas that would postpone the Samuel H. Sheppard murder trial today and ordered the start of jury selection.

Blythin allowed defense attorneys 25 minutes to present arguments in support of two motions filed with the court: an indefinite postponement of the trial and/or change of venue.

Blythin turned down both requests. He noted, however, that his decision could be reversed if difficulty was encountered in selecting a jury from the 38-man, 37-woman venire.

Sheppard, who has been in a fourth-floor cell two floors above the courtroom since he was indicted Aug. 17 for first degree murder, was reported in "good spirits" and confident he would be found innocent of bludgeoning his wife, Marilyn to death last July 4.

The 31-year-old Mrs. Sheppard was murdered as she slept in the couple's Lakeside home in suburban Bay Village. Sheppard told police that she was attacked by an intruder, that he went to her aid and was knocked unconscious by her assailant, who escaped.

Family stands by Sheppard. Sheppard's two brothers, Richard and Stephen, and his father, Dr. Richard A. Sheppard, promised they would be with the defendant "as much as possible" during the trial, which is expected to last at least six weeks.

Dr. Richard N. Sheppard, an older brother, said the family had complete confidence in his brother's innocence. The father and three sons practice at the Bay View Osteopathic Hospital in Bay Village.

The hospital was founded by the father and it was there that Dr. Samuel Sheppard met Susan Hayes, then a 24-year-old laboratory technician with whom he later admitted having intimacies in California. She is expected to be the state's chief witness.

Campaign in Final Two Weeks; GOP Hopeful, Demos Optimistic

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1954 election campaign rolled into the final two weeks today with the Republicans grimly hopeful and the Democrats optimistic about the way the votes will go in November.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon planned to issue a statement late today on how things look to him after a campaign swing through 23 states. An aide said the report "won't be pessimistic" but he declined to say it would be optimistic.

House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn beamed with confidence as he pulled into the capital Sunday night from speaking engagements in California, Texas, and Virginia. He made it clear he expects a sweeping Democratic victory.

The tempo of the campaign picked up all across the country. Nixon will leave Tuesday on a hard-hitting tour of Pennsylvania, Illinois, the Pacific Northwest, and California.

Rayburn will hit the trail for Missouri Wednesday. Adlai Stevenson, Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr., and the other big political guns all will be in the firing line.

Over the weekend this is the way the debate went:

UNEMPLOYMENT

Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell said in a television interview Sunday night that the administration is not letting jobless shift for themselves, that there will be a fall pickup in auto industry employment, and that unemployment in the coal and textile industries cannot be blamed on the economy.

CIO President Walter P. Reuther said in a television interview that his big union is not supporting any GOP congressional candidates because the administration failed to take "positive action" on unemployment, housing, health and other problems.

FARM PRICES

Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okl.) and Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) clashed head-on over the administration's farm policies Sunday night in a television debate in Chicago.

Monroney charged that with the Republicans "the farmer has lost more than two billion dollars in income in 20 months under a deliberate program of lowering prices." Capehart countered that if prices are low it is because of legislation passed by Democrats.

FOREIGN POLICY

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall hit back at former President Truman's attack Saturday night on the administration's foreign policies.

"When he speaks of foreign policy, certainly Mr. Truman must remember that while he was President 600 million free people were put behind the Iron Curtain," Hall said Sunday in a Jefferson City, Mo., speech.

Mr. Truman charged in his only address of the campaign—at Kansas City, Mo.—that the Republicans "ever shifting" and "frenzied" foreign policy has jeopardized America's security and world peace.

DIXON-YATES

Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) said Sunday that the proposed government contract to buy power from the Dixon-Yates combine is "undue and inexcusable enrichment of one private company at the expense of the American taxpayer." Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.) called it one of the most "flagrant violations of doing business for the people of the United States that I know of."

ness for the people of the United States that I know of."

DOGS

Reuther said he has accepted Wilson's apology for using a bird dog-kennel dog analogy in a discussion of unemployment. He said it is time to talk about people.

Labor Secretary Mitchell said the trouble with the dog remark was that a wrong "implication" was drawn from it.

Store Destroyed At Carbondale

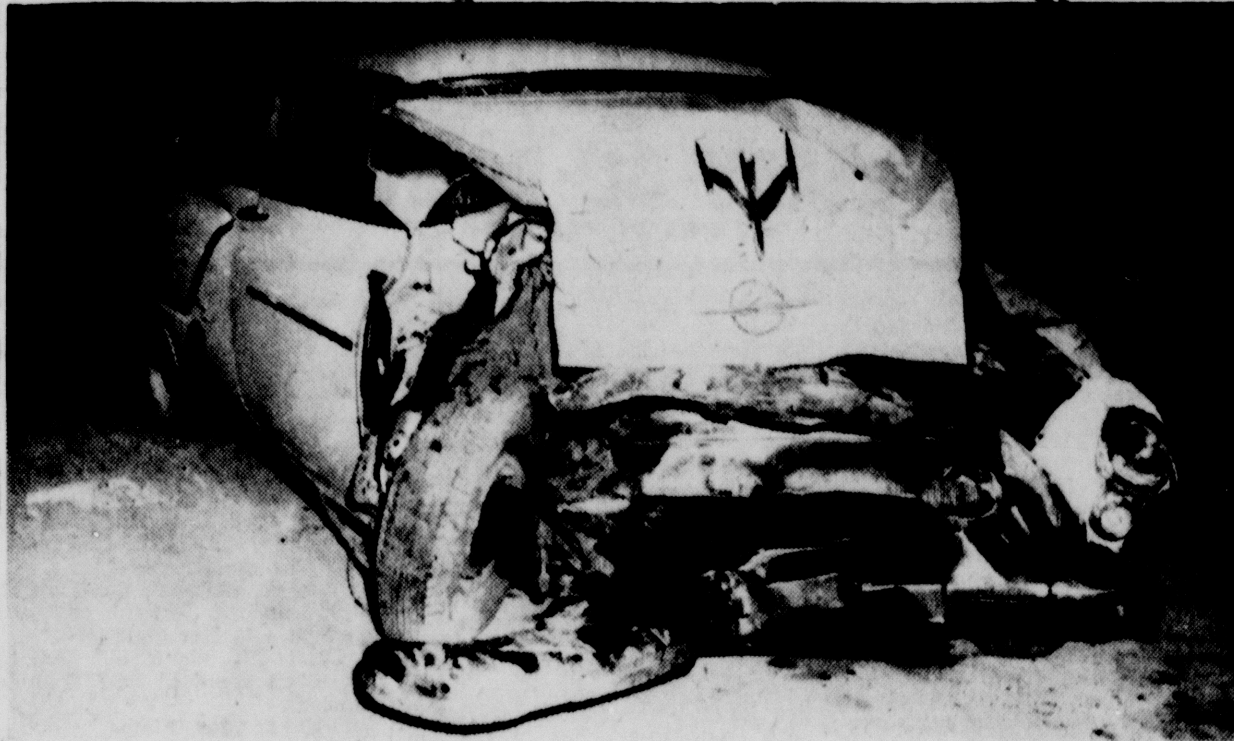

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — A fire and explosion at the J. V. Walker Clothing Store here Sunday caused $80,000 damage. Jo Walker, head of a southern Illinois clothing store chain, estimated today.

Walker said the store would operate in temporary quarters until the building is rebuilt.

The explosion of uncertain origin blew out two walls of the J. V. Walker store just as firemen were about to enter the building. No one was injured.

Fire Chief Monk Crawshaw said the blast could have been caused by smoke or some type of gas forming above the ceiling of the one-story brick building.

The explosion also caused minor damage to a building near the clothing store.

DEATH TRAPS FOR FOUR were these two smashed-up automobiles, which collided yesterday afternoon on Route 142 near Eldorado. Four died and two were injured as the result of the collision. Above is the car driven by G. A. Gross, in which he and his wife, Noma, died. Below is the car in which the Robert H. Patton family of Evansville was riding. His wife, Emma Lou, and one son, Dennis Ray, 3, were killed. Patton and a 12-year-old son, Ronald Lee, are in the Pearce hospital at Eldorado.

Southern Ohio Towns Brace for Ohio River Flood; 14 Persons are Dead

Forecasters at Cincinnati Predict Stage of 46 Feet

BULLETIN

The Ohio river is expected to crest at Shawneetown at 29.5 feet and at Uniontown at 30.5, it was announced today by weather officials in Evansville. The crest is expected next Monday at Shawneetown and Uniontown. The announcement also revealed that some overflow is expected in the bottomlands near those two communities.

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP) —

Southern Ohio towns brace themselves today for an Ohio River flood that already had claimed possibly 14 lives, forced thousands of persons to flee their homes and caused an estimated $23,700,000 damage.

Forecasters in Cincinnati predicted the crest will arrive there Friday morning at a height of 46 feet, six feet under flood stage.

In Columbus, Gov. Frank J. Lausche ordered government surplus food be made available to Ohio flood victims. The governor told Welfare Director Henry Robinson to see that commodities were distributed, where needed, through the Red Cross and local relief agencies. The foods available included dried milk, butter, cheese, and shortening.

Most of the industrial workers in the Martins Ferry, Ohio, area, across the Ohio river from Wheeling, returned to work today. Industry spokesmen said the early return would mean a downward revision of earlier damage estimates in the area. Early damage estimates were about $6,700,000.

Flood Drops Slow

J. T. O'Neill of the Pittsburgh Weather Bureau advised the Martins Ferry area that the Ohio river would fall below flood stage at noon, two hours earlier than expected. He said the rate of fall in the next few days would be slow because flood control dams would be opened in rivers above Pittsburgh.

The river crested at Marietta at 37.5 feet. The Marietta stage is 35 feet, but 40 feet is considered by residents the danger mark. Officials had expected little serious damage here and the expectation proved true. One resident termed it "a situation of bothersome trouble rather than danger."

As the flood stage rolled southward, Western Pennsylvania counted damage of nearly 17 million dollars. Damage in the West Virginia and Ohio areas was estimated at $6,700,000.

At least 13 persons were known dead in Pennsylvania and an Ohio man was missing and believed drowned.

The turbulent waters of the Ohio, fed by torrential rains Friday that were intensified by Hurricane Hazel, crested here late Sunday at eight and one half feet above flood stage of 36½ feet and then began dropping steadily.

Select Jury in Travelstead Murder Trial

MARION, Ill. (AP) — Four of eight prospective jurors were excused by the prosecution as selection of a jury for the trial of James L. Travelstead for the murder of his wife, Jean, got underway in circuit court here.

Travelstead, 37, of Marion, is accused of shooting his wife last May 3 after she started action to divorce him. Mrs. Travelstead died of a bullet wound in her abdomen after her husband fired six shots at her in a tavern where they had been talking.

The four jurors accepted by the prosecution had not been questioned by defense attorneys up to noon today and it was not certain they would be acceptable to both sides.

Receive Complaints Of Ashes Dumped In Streets, Alleys

City Police Chief Loren Travelstead said he had received complaints of people dumping their ashes in alleys and pointed out that a city ordinance prohibits their dumping in city streets and alleys.

Fire Damages Garage

Fire of undetermined origin damaged a garage building at the Marie McCormick residence, 915 South Washington street, Saturday night. The fire department received the call at 8:20 p. m.

Grand Jury Accuses Powell of Criminal Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury today accused former federal housing official Clyde L. Powell of criminal contempt of court.

The grand jury filed a presentment against Powell for his refusal to answer questions in its investigation of nationwide housing scandals.

The jurors charged specifically that Powell refused to tell the grand jury whether he took the official diaries of his office for the years 1946 to 1954 with him when he was fired earlier this year.

The presentment was filed with Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts who previously had ordered Powell to answer the questions of the grand jurors.

Letts set trial date on the contempt charge for Wednesday morning. If convicted on the contempt charge, Powell's penalty would be up to Letts. Powell could be fined and jailed.

Powell is the former assistant federal housing administrator. The Housing and Home Finance Agency is under congressional pressure to find out who hired him in the first place.

Four persons were dead today in a highway tragedy that occurred between 3 and 3:30 p. m. yesterday when two cars collided on Route 142 about two miles north of Eldorado.

Coroner Elmer M. Gibbons said witnesses to the crash told him that Gross, a retired farmer, was driving north on the highway and that Patton and his family were travelling southward and that the crash occurred when Gross began a left turn at a gravel road. The vehicles were demolished.

Mr. Gross and Mrs. Patton were killed practically instantly and the other four were rushed to Pearce hospital. Mrs. Gross died at 4:50 p. m. and the little boy at 5:10 a. m. today.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

My cup runneth over. — Psalm 23:5.

The happiest man we ever knew was a humble farmer who was in old age weary of life, when his daughter became a widow, and with two young sons needed a roof and food and clothes that the old man was able to supply. Their appreciation and love filled his cup of happiness to the brim. It is indeed more blessed to give than to receive.

London Agreement

Editorial BY BRUCE BISSAT

The London conference that has brought a nine-power agreement to draw Germany politically and militarily into the Western European orbit may well be set down as one of the great events of the postwar era.

In the opinion of practiced observers, it is potentially stronger than the EDC plan killed this summer by France. For it places Britain in close alliance with continental Europe for the first time in history. That tremendous development explains why French Premier Mendes-France would initial this pact while opposing EDC.

Under the new agreement, West Germany will be invited to join NATO, the prime existing European defense setup.

It will also be made a signatory to the 1948 so-called Brussels treaty, which linked Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg in a military, economic and cultural union. Italy, too, will be added to this group.

The Brussels pact members will establish an agency for control of armaments on the European continent, for continental members of the Brussels groups. In addition, Germany has forsown manufacture of atomic, biological and chemical weapons, guided missiles, bombers and large submarines.

The Bonn republic further pledged itself not to resort to force in any effort to reunify Germany or modify existing frontiers.

These limitations on German arms and national aspirations were crucial to France's acceptance of the nine-power agreement. Mendes-France actually pressed for even more, but in the end he signed the final compromise.

The French premier must be credited with having gained a lot that he sought. Yet it seems evident that detailed arrangements under an EDC pact would likely have imposed restrictions on German rearmament.

What pushed Mendes-France to acceptance of the new treaty was his understanding that the other nations, and especially Britain and the U. S., were determined to approve German rearmament and political sovereignty with or without the French.

In that determined drive, Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, backed by the redoubtable Prime Minister Churchill, led the way. And their ultimate willingness to involve Britain closely in continental defense affairs was the really decisive factor.

German Chancellor Adenauer deserves to be hailed for his realistic acceptance of limitations on his country's arms. He is truly European-minded and sees Germany's future best served through association with the West.

The London agreement is a great turning point. France, like the others, must now ratify what has been done. But the French surely realize that all reasonable effort has been made to allay their fears of a revived Germany. If their Assembly should reject this pact, they would understand that the principles of the agreement would most likely be carried out anyway.

A great blow has been struck for Western solidarity and strength, and against the menacing Communist conspirators bent on global conquest. One cannot imagine the French have the nerve to undo in any way this historic work at London.

Churchill Puts Emphasis on Youth In Cabinet Shuffle

LONDON — Prime Minister Winston Churchill today challenged the Labor Party's bid for a return to power by putting the accent on youth in a major reshuffle of his Conservative government.

The cabinet shake-up, approved by Queen Elizabeth II and announced officially by Churchill Sunday night, was the most far-reaching since World War II.

It promoted many younger men and should end Conservative complaints that too many "old faces" were hanging on too long in the government.

Churchill, who will be 80 next month, remained at the head of the government and indicated he would continue to carry on, if health permits, until the 1955 elections.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler held their posts, but P. E. Marshall, Earl Alexander of Tunis, 62, famous World War II Allied commander in the Mediterranean, resigned as defense minister.

Lord Simonds, 72, resigned as lord high chancellor and Sir Lionel Heald, 57, quit as attorney general.

Florence Horsburgh, only woman in the cabinet, stepped out as minister of education.

Harold MacMillan, 60, now No. 4 man in the Conservative Party, stepped up from the housing ministry to the defense post vacated by Alexander.

Mop Up After Hurricane; 165 Death Toll

By United Press

Wearied workers from South Carolina northward to the Canadian province of Ontario, sought to restore order today out of the havoc left by Hurricane Hazel, one of the worst ever to rip the North American continent.

The known overall death toll stood at 163, including 82 in the United States, 60 in Canada and 21 in Haiti where the hurricane loosed its first lethal punch last Wednesday. Property damage ran into hundreds of millions of dollars.

The grim search went on in Canada and Haiti for dozens of persons still reported missing.

North and South Carolina probably were hardest hit by the hurricane in this country. President Eisenhower, slashing through government red tape, Sunday ordered immediate "blank-check" federal aid for wide areas of those two states.

Other Aid Considered

The White House said "immediate consideration" would be given similar aid requests from any of nine other states hit by the hurricane.

In Ontario, the week-end blast was the province's worst natural disaster and took the heaviest toll of lives since 199 persons burned to death aboard the luxury liner Noronic in Toronto five years ago.

Damage in the Toronto metropolitan area alone was estimated at 100 million dollars.

The sodden wreckage of what was once one of Toronto's best residential areas in Etobicoke Township, continued to yield bodies, but the process of recovery and identification was slow. One street alone counted 54 dead or missing. Officials feared many of the victims had been swept into Lake Ontario.

Illinois Coal Production Up

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Output of Illinois coal mines last month climbed upward from August, the State Mines and Minerals Department reported today.

Total production in September was 3,528,992 tons, compared with 3,097,899 tons in August. However, it was still shy of the 3,649,588 tons dug in September, 1953.

Williamson led all counties last month with 529,987 tons. Christian was second, followed by Franklin, Fulton, Perry, St. Clair and Saline.

Rites in Memphis Today for Crump

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—E. H. Crump, the last of the colorful big city political rulers, will be buried today in this city he ruled with "benevolent dictatorship" for a half century.

Thousands of citizens have filed past his casket at the Crump home since the white-haired, 80-year-old political leader died Saturday. He had been confined to his bed with a heart ailment for the past two weeks.

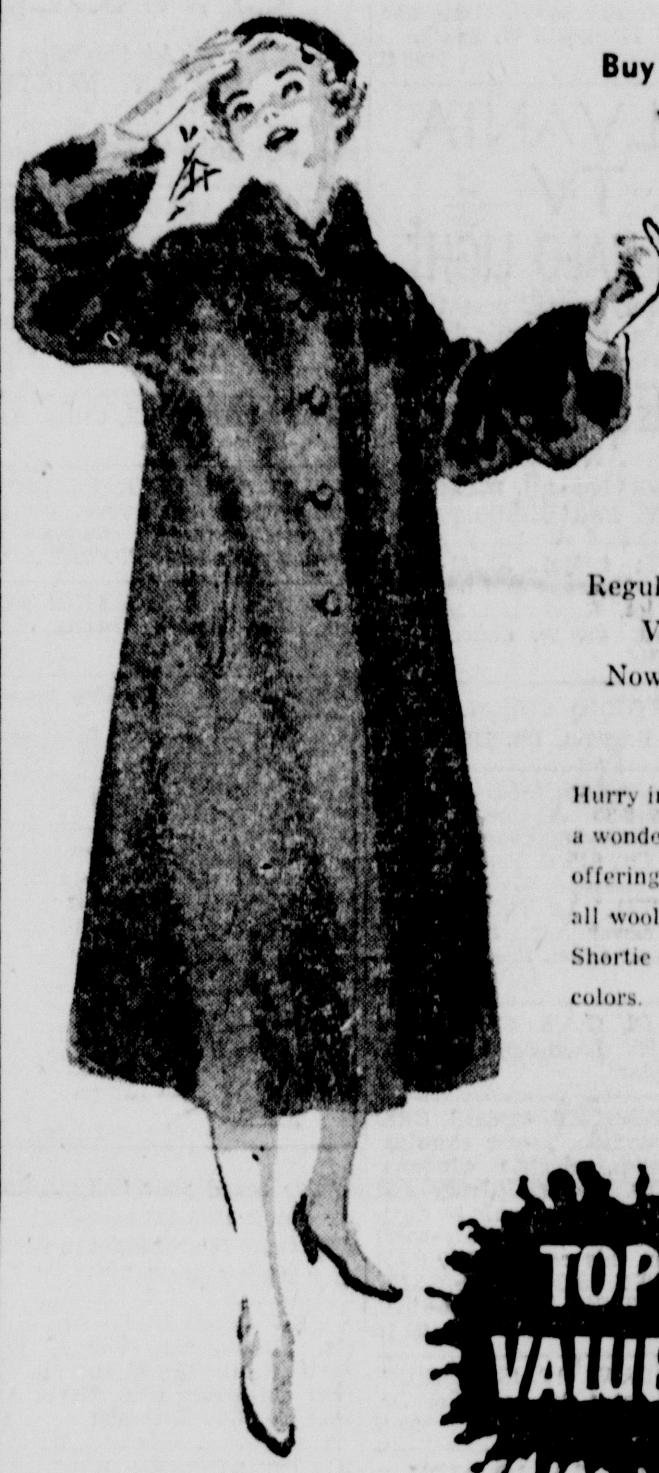

Everyone has a vocation by which he earns his living, but he also has a vocation in an older sense of the word—the vocation to use his powers and live his life well.

our Constitution meant for one county to control the destinies of 101 others," he said.

Verhines, in his remarks, asked, "Shall we sacrifice the freedoms given us by the Constitution? This measure definitely puts the house in control of Cook county and the house controls the purse strings of the state. If they get control of the house, how long will it be until they pass legislation for control of the senate?"

He suggested that the people of downstate vote "No" on the Blue Ballot handed them at the polls election day.

"Assuming that Cook county had the necessary number of representatives to place them in control of the house," said Verhines, "just how much real consideration would be accorded a member elected from one of the smaller downstate districts in an appeal for funds to help his district in the matter of roads, schools, drainage or any other necessary improvement."

"It is a foregone conclusion that his request would be promptly denied — unless he signified his willingness to pledge support to any bill the bosses of Cook county wish to have passed."

Kerr Hits IAA Opposition "When and if this condition exists I am sure it will be very difficult to persuade honest men from the downstate districts to seek a seat in the legislature."

Rep. Kerr said the issue is: "Shall Cook county alone or all counties of the state control Illinois?"

"Today strong forces are at work to change the Constitution the state has grown and prospered under," Kerr stated, and asked: "Why should we have to help Cook county clean up its mess?"

Kerr said he could not understand why the Illinois Agricultural association is sponsoring the amendment when in most cases Cook county legislators have opposed Farm Bureau legislation.

"I don't believe any one county should have control of the state and I believe there is something behind this bigger than just representation. There's too much money being spent to put it over, and when big money is put out, those who spend it expect big returns."

Burglars Take $350,000 in Mink, Stamps

CHICAGO — Burglars have looted a mink and a stamp collection and spirited off loot valued at $350,000.

The two unusual crimes were revealed in different parts of the city Sunday.

In the loop burglars broke through a foot-thick wall in the vault of a fur shop, Margaritis Mitchell, Inc.

They took 170 items, including 50 mink coats owned by customers, 30 mink pieces owned by the company, 90 other fur garments and about 200 uncut skins.

John J. Mitchell, the shop's owner, valued the loot at about $250,000. All of it was insured, he said.

On the city's South Side, thieves broke into the home of Maj. Clifford W. Yost and stole 29 stamp albums. Yost said his collection was worth $100,000 and was not insured.

In both cases, the burglars were discriminating in what they took. Mitchell said the thieves ignored cheaper pieces among his stock. At the Yost home the burglars passed up Mrs. Yost's jewelry.

The stamp collection, he said, had taken 36 years to accumulate. Yost is attached to the Army Quartermaster's depot here.

Meanwhile, another bizarre robbery was reported, but the victims didn't seem to be too worried about it.

Mrs. Babette Kornblith, an amateur painter and wife of an insurance broker, said 10 of her paintings had been stolen from her station wagon.

She isn't offering a reward for their return, Mrs. Kornblith said, because "my husband says there is only one painting in the world worth offering a reward for — the Mona Lisa."

Two East Berlin Leaders Flee to West

BERLIN (AP)—Two East German right-wing politicians have fled to the West, the anti-Communist Information Bureau West reported today.

They were identified as Hans Mueller, leader of the Liberal Democratic party economic department, and Hans Hermann Kreibitz, organization leader of the Christian Democratic party in Rostock.

Both fled because they feared arrest for anti-Communist activity.

Nancy and Miss Wister sat on opposite sides of a small sunroom that overlooked the lake. Dunn was not at all sure he liked the changes in Miss Wister. Certainly contact with the Carlsons had made her quite different from the efficient fixture in the outer office of the Pine Detective Agency. Perhaps his past opinions had been colored by Miss Wister's past performances. He could never forget her loyalty, the things she had done.

Yet her obvious lying, the viciousness of her temper in the attack on Mrs. Gelstrap, made her an obvious suspect if the death of Angelica proved other than accidental.

Sheriff Agnes said, "Do you want to add anything to your previous statement, Miss Wister?" She had reassumed her formal, sheriff's role.

"No, I don't think so."

"Perhaps you will change your mind when I tell you the Denver police have searched your apartment?"

A flood of color crept up Miss Wister's neck, made her ruddy cheeks even redder. "You had no right to do that." She did not raise her voice, looked down at the clenched hands in her lap. Yet even without bodily motion it was evident that every muscle was tense, that she waited for a blow she still hoped would not come.

"The Denver police were very much interested in your photographs," Agnes went on inexorably.

Miss Wister shot an agonized glance in Dunn's direction.

"Perhaps Mr. Dunn can tell us more about them?" the sheriff went on. She looked across the room toward Nancy.

He said, "Miss Wister had not discussed her taste in photography with me."

"Odd," Sheriff Agnes snapped, "because you are the subject of them all."

"Not odd at all," Jim said modestly. "I'm really remarkably photogenic." He risked a wink at Nancy, saw the answering twinkle in her eyes. He found time to feel a little sorry for Agnes. Because for the first time since their meeting, Nancy looked at the sheriff with speculation. Jim was happy.

He felt that the beginning of a barrier had been blasted away, that he was no longer walled away from complete understanding with his wife.

Miss Wister said softly, "You don't have to torment me. My personal life has nothing to do with this. It's none of your business."

Agnes Argyle realized she had lost, instead of gaining, ground with Nancy by this attack on Miss Wister. But she hurried to reveal the reason for the attack, sure that would bring Nancy back under her influence.

"You're in love with Jim Dunn," she accused.

Miss Wister stared at her hands again. Jim watched Nancy's face, kept his own expressionless.

Nancy got to her feet, walked over and put her arm around Miss Wister's shoulders. She faced Agnes Argyle.

"Even at the risk of making my husband more big-headed than he is, I do have to say this. Why shouldn't Miss Wister be in love with him? It shows her good taste."

Jim saw the appreciation, the relief in Miss Wister's face, the disappointment in Agnes Argyle's. He saw Miss Wister square her shoulders, stiffen her whole body. She had fought for him once that day, and Jim knew the signs. Miss Wister was getting ready to fight again.

Jim and Nancy walked down past the boathouse to the edge of the lake. Nancy stopped when they were in a sheltered position, held up her arms. "You haven't kissed me at all today."

That omission was easily and pleasantly remedied.

Nancy pulled away, smiled and sat down on a rock. She said, "What a stinker!"

"Now you've spoiled it. But you did say Miss Wister was in love with me. Of course I knew it all the time, but I'm much too modest for my own good."

"Jim, what's going on around here?" Dunn sobered instantly. "We're caught in the middle of a family mess."

"I don't see how. Agnes—the sheriff?"

"You haven't seen old Mrs. Oswald yet, have you? Put Agnes Argyle alongside the old lady and you know they have a great deal in common, including blood."

"Stop looking so smug, Jim. What was Agnes trying to do with me?"

"The way it looks," Jim went on, "Agnes was to make friends with you, influence you into seeing only one point of view. You were to turn to her, believe her, trust her, instead of me. Of course that was supposed to infuriate me. Soften me up, so to speak, so I would be ready to fall into Mrs. Hilton's trap. And a nicely baited trap, I must say."

Understanding flooded Nancy's face. "But what does she think I'd be doing?"

"Don't forget Mrs. Hilton was watching through glasses. She saw you in that dark and dowdy outfit of yours. Why should she expect competition from such a frump?"

She didn't even recognize you at first as the same woman, and she didn't like it a bit when she found out. Let that be a lesson to you to always look your best.

"A nice family," Nancy said. "But all this planning and effort, Jim. That must mean they know it was murder."

GEORGE B. LEE

ATTORNEY AT LAW

HARRISBURG, ILLINOIS

TO THE PEOPLE OF SALINE COUNTY:

I am a candidate on the Republican ticket for the office of County Judge to be voted on Tuesday, November 2.

This is the first time that I have ever been a candidate for public office in any general election; I have never held a public office.

It is, of course, impossible to see and become acquainted with every voter in the County, therefore, I am making this statement in order that you may better know me.

I was born and raised in Saline County. My parents are Mr. and Mrs. John B. Lee. My family consists of my wife, Alice, and my two children, Jane and John.

I have practiced law in Harrisburg for twenty-six years, except for the two and one-half years I spent in the army during World War II.

During the time that Judge Charles H. Thompson was a member of the Supreme Court of Illinois, I was associated with him as his legal secretary.

Because of my years of practice and my past associations, I believe I am well qualified for the office of County Judge.

The office of County Judge is a most important office. The judge is the Probate Judge of the county, having to do with administering estates, probating wills, guardianship affairs and many other important matters. Questions concerning minor's estates and dependent and neglected children are passed upon by the County Judge. In this connection, I believe these matters deserve sympathetic and understanding care, and it is just that kind of consideration that I propose to give to those matters, if I am chosen as your County Judge.

I believe the office of County Judge should be administered without fear or favor, and by that I mean without political fear or favor. I believe in the fair, impartial and honest administration of justice.

I pledge to you that if I am elected your County Judge, I will do my very best to make you an honest, efficient and trustworthy official, ever being responsible to you for my conduct in office.

I will appreciate your vote and I invite your support and influence.

Sincerely,

GEORGE B. LEE.

Rules Teachers May Be Fired for Red Affiliations

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Atty. Gen. Latham Castle has ruled that Illinois teachers may be removed from their jobs if they become "closely affiliated" with the Communist Party or "other subversive organizations."
Castle held in a formal opinion Saturday that the Communist Party "is not a political party in the American sense."
"A school teacher who participates in the Communist movement is not attempting to advance American ideals in a political sphere," Castle said, "but rather to destroy America."

Oklahoma, Wisconsin, UCLA, Ohio State Emerge As Football's 'Big Four'

By United Press
Oklahoma, Wisconsin, UCLA and Ohio State emerged today as the "big four" of college football after a weekend that saw many of their top rivals engulfed by the latest wave of upsets.

Power-packed triumphs by each of the big four, currently rated in that order atop the national rankings, stood out as especially impressive since three of the nation's top 10 teams were beaten and another, Notre Dame, squeaked through by a single point.

Now things are shaping up for a titanic battle this Saturday when Wisconsin clashes with Ohio State in a game that will wreck the perfect record and probably the Rose Bowl hopes of one of them.

Oklahoma, stretching its victory streak to 13 games as it opened its bid for its seventh straight Big Seven championship, walloped Kansas, 65-0, for the biggest margin in their 52-year rivalry. The Sooners, now solid favorites to sweep unbeaten through the entire season, rolled up an amazing 535 yards rushing.

UCLA Wallops Stanford
But Oklahoma's point total was eclipsed by UCLA, which set a school record by blasting Stanford, 72-0, for the worst defeat in the Indians' history.

There's not much trouble ahead this week for either of the teams because Oklahoma figures as a solid favorite over once-beaten Kansas State and UCLA a heavy choice over three-time loser Oregon State.

Purdue, conqueror of Notre Dame, led Wisconsin, by 6-0 at halftime. But the Badgers came on to go ahead on touchdown smashes by Jim Miller and Alan Ameche and clinch it, 20-6, with a 98-yard pass interception TD by Billy Lowe.

Ohio State also came from behind for a 20-14 victory over Iowa by stopping an Iowa drive on the five with less than two minutes to go.

Purdue was ranked fifth nationally and the Boilermakers were joined in defeat by six-ranked Duke, jolted 28-14 by Army, and 10th-ranked Penn State, victim of a stunning 19-14 defeat by unheralded West Virginia.

Other Upsets
Four other major surprises rocked the "experts" on Saturday—Arkansas remaining the Southwest conference's only unbeaten team by blasting Texas, 20-7; Columbia scoring in the last period to up-end Harvard, 7-6; Pittsburgh coming through under "sub" coach Tom Hamilton to beat Navy, 21-19; and Houston overturning Oklahoma A and M, 14-7.

Notre Dame narrowly averted the same fate when it defeated Michigan State, 20-19, thanks to a missed Spartan extra point with 65 seconds to play. Other top 10 teams to win were eighth-ranked Mississippi, by an easy 34-7 over Tulsa, 19-6, over Illinois.

Penn State was the top casualty among the major undefeated and untied list, which now numbers 18 teams.

Scuffle After Game Results In Fatal Injury

DIXON, Ill. — William R. Latta Jr., 20, suffered a fatal skull fracture as he fought with members of a victorious high school football team, it has been revealed.

A coroner's jury Sunday night said Latta's death in Amboy, Ill., Saturday was accidental and resulted from a scuffle following Friday night's game between Amboy and Bettendorf.

The jury made no recommendations about whether charges should be filed. The case is subject to review by State's Atty. James Bailles.

Coroner Robert F. Preston said the inquest was moved from Amboy to Dixon because feeling about the case was running high in Amboy.

Two members of the Bettendorf team testified that Latta attacked them following their 21-0 victory over the Amboy squad.

The scuffle broke out as the Bettendorf team was emerging from a "downtown" restaurant and was getting ready to board buses for the trip home.

Bettendorf fullback Charles Hackett, 19, said Latta drove up in a car, got out, and asked if Hackett said he answered "no," but Latta shoved him and they started fighting.

Other witnesses said the Bettendorf coaches separated the fighters.

Another Bettendorf player, James Fox, 17, said Latta bumped into him a few minutes later. Fox said Latta then swung at him, but he ducked and grabbed Latta. Latta fell forward as he twisted to get free, Fox said, and his head struck the pavement.

Latta was helped to his car and entered a hospital Saturday. He died a few hours later.

Bull Pups Lose at Centralia, 40-12

The Harrisburg Bull Pups traveled to Centralia for a freshman-sophomore game Saturday afternoon and came home with a 40 to 12 defeat.

Harrisburg touchdowns were scored by Charles Cummins and Donald Biggs.

Cummins made a nice 18-yard run, aided by good blocking to score and Biggs caught a pass from around the 10-yard line.

Wednesday night the Pups met the McLeansboro Foxes in the factory-benefit game at Taylor Field and next Monday travel to Herrin.

Syndicate Buys A's; Keeps Team in Philadelphia

Business Group Purchases Stock Of Mack Family

PHILADELPHIA — An eight-man Philadelphia syndicate, with plenty of enthusiasm but no baseball experience, took over the ownership of the floundering Philadelphia Athletics today and left disappointed Kansas City fans on the outside looking in.

The group, composed entirely of local businessmen, prevented the transfer of the Athletics to Kansas City by making a successful bid for the stock owned by the Mack family—Connie Sr., Earle and Roy—in a hectic six-hour meeting here Sunday night.

"I have notified William Harbridge, president of the American League, that we have agreed to sell to this fine group of civic-minded Philadelphia businessmen," Roy Mack said following announcement of the sale.

"I have requested league approval," he added. "I'm very, very happy to keep the A's in Philadelphia. That has always been my goal."

The goal of the new group will be to build up the club by use of a $550,000 operating fund, according to Arthur Rosenberg, food chain executive who acted as spokesman for the new owners.

Joost's Position Doubtful
Asked if Eddie Joost would be retained as field manager of the team, Rosenberg replied, "We will hire the best—we don't think we have it now. But I don't want to make any statement about re-hiring Eddie Joost until I talk with him."

In California, Joost admitted he hasn't "heard a word" from Athletics' officials since the World Series.

Another man admittedly waiting to hear a word was Eddie Mulligan, president of the Sacramento team of the Pacific Coast league, who has disclosed Roy Mack approached him about becoming the Athletics' new general manager.

But that was before the sale and Mulligan said the new group "may have other ideas." Mulligan said Letty O'Doul had previously been contacted about becoming the field manager.

The appointment of new officials can't come until after the new owners organize their higher echelon later this week.

The eight-man group which purchased the Athletics from the Macks consisted of: Rosenberg; T. R. (Ted) Hanf, investment broker; Jack Rensel, vice-president of a local motor company; Barney Fisher, oil and automotive executive; Morton Liebman, son of a department store executive; Isadore Sley, president of the Raquet Garage Corp.; Arthur Gallagher, plumbing and heating executive, and John Crismon, automobile sales executive.

Roy Mack Shareholder
Roy Mack, who sold his stock in the club along with his father and brother, then reinvested money in the club, thereby becoming a shareholder of one-ninth of the stock.

The 91-year-old Connie Mack, who brought the Athletics into the American league back in 1901, was named "honorary president" by the new group while Roy was given an undesignated position with the club calling for a salary of $25,000, the same amount he received last year.

Rosenberg explained that the group put together approximately 4 million dollars to make the deal and keep Arnold Johnson, a Chicago financier, from transferring the Athletics to Kansas City.

Central Michigan Rolls Over SIU, 33-0, in Loop Tilt

By United Press
Michigan Normal and Central Michigan rolled up one-sided victories Saturday over Northern Illinois and Southern Illinois to preserve their unbeaten league records and hold onto first place shares in the Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

Quarterback Bob Middlekauff completed eight of 10 passes for 136 yards and one touchdown as Michigan Normal walloped Northern Illinois, 34-0, at Ypsilanti.

The victory was Normal's second in IIAAC play and dropped Northern, whose record is now 1-1, out of a first-place tie.

Central Michigan, meanwhile, kept its lead at the top of the heap by trouncing still winless Southern Illinois, 33-0. Central's league mark is also 2-0, while Southern has a conference mark of 0-3.

Bob Rigenbach ran back a fourth period kickoff 100 yards to gain Illinois Normal a 13-13 tie with Western Illinois. The game was Western's first conference state, and the tie dropped Illinois Normal out of a first place tie.

Eastern Illinois was idle.

Liddle, Griffiths Duel to 0-0 10-Inning Tie at Town Park

Don Liddle of the New York Giants and Charley Griffiths of the Toledo Mudhens hooked up in a fine hurling duel at the town park diamond Sunday afternoon before a large crowd of spectators.

Both hurlers had the batters well under control, Liddle allowing only four safeties while Griffiths doled out but five. Liddle whiffed 17 of the local Stars while Griffiths struck out seven of the visiting Mt. Carmel Aces.

The game ended in a scoreless 0-0 tie after ten innings because of darkness.

The vast crowd saw some fine defensive play to go along with the stellar hurling as both clubs turned in several sparkling plays aimed to aid their causes.

Threatened several times in the early innings but three double plays by the Star infield in as many innings erased their scoring chances. Later threats by the visitors were stifled by Griffiths' strikeout pitch which he worked well in the latter innings. Harrisburg threatened in several innings also but Liddle closed the door on them each time.

Don Karnes and Ron Ziegler turned in the best catches of the afternoon with Harold Gully, Dick Odle, Merle Dailey and Ziegler contributing nice fielding plays on the infield.

Dick Odle paced both clubs in the hitting department with two safeties in four tries. Bill McNew and Fred Williams garnered the other hits for the locals. Holcomb, Coomer, Harmon, Vaughn and Liddle had the five safeties garnered by the Aces.

Dick Romponosky was the local crier and he did a fine job of handling the pitching of Griffiths. Pegram was the visitors' catcher and he likewise did a fine job of catching Liddle.

Winkelman, Beal, Sowers and Jarrells were the umpires.

The management of both local clubs wishes to thank all local and visiting fans for the fine support given for this affair in furthering plans for an enclosed ball park for next season.

Players who have money and tickets left should turn them in at Henry's Typewriter Service immediately.

Six Interpreters To Explain Cage Rules in Illinois

CHICAGO — Six basketball rules interpreters prepared today to explain the 1954-55 basketball code at 19 meetings sponsored by the Illinois High School Assn. throughout the state during the first two weeks of November.

The official IHSA interpreters met in the offices of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Assns. here Sunday. They were given instructions on the proper interpretations of the coming season's rules.

Because of the relatively few changes in rules, interpreters at the rules clinics planned to spend most of their time reviewing older parts of the regulations and in discussing officiating mechanics and technique.

Only one rule change will have any appreciable effect upon the manner in which games are played IHSA officials said. That was a new rule replacing the abolished "I and I" rule. The new regulation provides that a free thrower shall be awarded a second throw if the first toss is successful. The old "I and I" penalty gave this additional throw if the first one was missed.

The new rule was aimed at reducing personal fouls and emphasizing good marksmanship at the free throw line.

Official IHSA interpreters for 1954 were Frank J. Falzone, Rockford; Joe E. Frank, Champaign; Ernest Lieberman, Chicago; Clyde McQueen, Springfield; Ted Search, Chester; and M. F. Sprunger, Chicago.

Expect Large Crowd at Bull Pups-Foxes Tilt

At least 1500 spectators are expected at Wednesday night's benefit football game between the HTHS Bull Pups and the McLeansboro Foxes, if early ticket sales are any indication.

The game, scheduled for 7:30 Wednesday night, should be of interest to a great many fans, since the Foxes are coached by John VanderPlum of Harrisburg, former HTHS and SIU backfield star, and they boast a record of three victories against only one defeat in McLeansboro's first season of football in over 25 years.

Net proceeds of the contest will go to the Jaycees' factory drive fund, through the courtesy of HTHS officials, so the Jaycees are naturally hoping for a big turnout at the game.

Tickets are on sale at the high school and at the Athletic House, or they can be purchased from any Jaycee.

Utah Candidate Admits Story of Warlike Heroism a Hoax; Study Political Fate

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah State Republican Central Committee meets here tonight to decide the political fate of Rep. Douglas R. Stringfellow, who dramatically admitted that his story of heroism behind German lines in World War II was a hoax.

Utah GOP Chairman O. J. Wilkinson, Salt Lake City, called the 125 members of the committee to meet in a hotel here at 10 p. m.

Many Republicans felt that sympathy for the 32-year-old war veteran, who still walks with a cane because of injuries suffered in a German land mine explosion, was strong enough to permit him to remain a candidate. Democratic leaders expressed sympathy but said his repentance should not include re-election to Congress.

May Name Sub

The central committee must decide whether to leave Stringfellow's name on the ballot as GOP candidate from Utah's First Congressional District or name a substitute with the Nov. 2 election a scant two weeks away.

In calling the Utah Republican leaders together, Wilkinson asked "all members of the committee to give this matter a great deal of careful and prayerful thought between now and the meeting in order that a decision may be reached which will be fair to both Mr. Stringfellow and the people of the district he represents."

Stringfellow, meanwhile, withdrew from active participation in the Republican campaign pending outcome of the meeting and secluded himself and his family in an Ogden, Utah, home.

In a surprise speech Saturday night, Stringfellow said it was "the most difficult statement of my lifetime, but admitted to a Utah radio and television audience that he was never an OSS agent or hero in World War II.

Boasted Of Raid

During the past several years he had related in speeches from coast to coast a tale of how he led 30 OSS agents in a daring parachute raid behind German lines to capture a nuclear scientist and slow up the Nazi A-bomb effort.

In branding the OSS story a hoax, Stringfellow said his war record consisted of training with an armored infantry division and a short time in France, not in combat, before he was wounded by a German land mine.

He apologized for "grievous mistakes" and offered to withdraw from the campaign. If party officials ask him to continue, he said, "I shall carry on my campaign on my record in the 83rd Congress."

Kaskaskia Forest Practices Outlined At Field Day

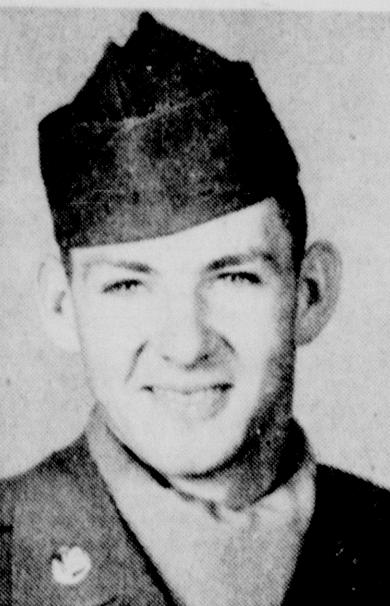

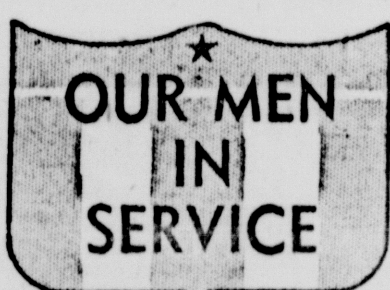

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Seven years of woodland management on a 24-acre tract at the Kaskaskia Experimental Forest in Hardin county have yielded $800 in woodland products without decreasing the total volume of saw timber. During the same period the annual per acre growth has increased from 175 to 257 board feet.

Management practices giving these results were pointed out Oct. 13 to nearly 60 persons attending the second annual Farm Forestry Field Day at the forest. The day-long activities included woodland tours; discussions of forest management, log grading, and lumber grades; demonstration; and timber volume and marking contests.

The field day was sponsored jointly by the Carbondale U. S. Forest Research Center, Southern Illinois university, the University of Illinois Agriculture Extension service, the Illinois Agricultural association, the Illinois Division of Forestry, and the Illinois Central Railroad.

During a tour of the farm woodland management area the visiting farmers, foresters, farm advisers, and soil conservationists noted how unwanted trees had been girdled and left to die, how young trees left showed vigorous growth and promised high quality, how cutting timber aided restocking, and how trees reaching maturity were harvested annually in such a way as to improve the remaining stand.
